ACADEMIC REGALIA

The present-day academic costume seemingly originated at Oxford and Cambridge Universities in the 1300s. As the universities passed from ecclesiastical control, brighter colors distinguished the academic robe from the drab clerical gown. Colonial American universities based their academic regalia on the British system.

In 1893, an intercollegiate commission established a uniform code for caps, gowns and hoods for the various degrees.

Black tassels are correct for all degrees and colored tassels are worn only by preference. The doctor's cap and presidents of universities or colleges may have tassels of gold thread. The tassel should be worn draped over the left front quarter of the cap.

The usual color for academic gowns in the United States is black. The bachelor's gown is worn closed; the master's and doctor's may be worn open or closed. The shape of the sleeve is the distinguishing mark of the gowns; bachelor, long pointed sleeves; master, oblong sleeves open at the wrist; doctor, bell-shaped with three velvet bars on each sleeve.

Of the costume's three components, the hood is the most interesting. Originally it had three uses: as a head covering; as a shoulder cape; and as a bag in which alms could be collected. It is mentioned as early as 1480 in clerical literature. When large wigs were in vogue in Britain, the cape part of the hood was split in front and a narrow neckband inserted. The entire cape and hood was allowed to fall back as it is today, and it was never restored to the original style.

The hoods are lined with the color of the institution which awarded the degree to the wearer. The color of the border or collar of the hood designates the degree.

Following is a list of the hood and tassel colors established by the Intercollegiate Code to represent departments of learning:

STUDENT ACCOLADES

LIZ BURKHART

Liz Burkhart has earned her Associate's Degree in Social Work and discovered her true calling through her work in the Student Life Office, where she supported students facing homelessness, food insecurity, and domestic violence. This experience ignited her passion for social work and solidified her decision to shift her career path. Liz now aims to become a Medical Social Worker, advocating bilingually for her community and supporting children who have survived sex trafficking. As a single parent, she has balanced raising her children with academic responsibilities, showing remarkable resilience and determination. She is a proud Nina Mason Scholar, which has provided invaluable support and guidance along her journey. The time and effort she invests in her studies and family reflect her deep commitment to becoming a strong voice for those in crisis. She looks forward to continuing her work in service to the most vulnerable members of her community.

DAVIS HESTER

Davis Hester graduates today with an Associate's Degree in Psychology and an unwavering commitment to making a difference in the lives of others, with dreams of becoming a clinical psychologist and one day opening a private practice. While at GCC, Davis not only excelled academically—never earning below an A as a full-time student—but also athletically, earning the 2025 title of Scholar Athlete of the Year. This balance of excellence in both the classroom and on the court is a true reflection of his drive and discipline. Davis has learned that when his academics got tough, instead of giving up, he leaned in, asked more questions, studied harder, and believed in his ability to improve. His persistence paid off and led him to a mindset shift. He approaches every class knowing that he can learn anything presented to him, no matter how difficult the class is. That mindset has carried Davis through college and will carry him into his next chapter as he continues both his education and basketball career.

KRISTIN KLINE

Kristin Kline has earned her Associate's Degree in Business and is well on her way to completing a second degree in Exercise Science. Her journey has been anything but ordinary. Kristin has overcome addiction, incarceration, and the deep shame that comes from years of running from responsibility. In the process, she lost precious time with her daughters and broke trust, but she chose to face it all head-on. After her release, Kristin didn't wait for a second chance—she created one. She got clean, enrolled in school, and began building a life filled with purpose. She has rebuilt her name, restored her family, and reimagined her future. Kristin's vision is bold: to become a powerful and recognized motivational speaker and transformational leader for this generation. She plans to stand on stages around the world, sharing her story and challenging others to stop making excuses and start taking ownership of their lives. Through fitness, mindset, and the message of redemption, Kristin is building a global movement. She is determined to change lives, disrupt broken systems, and rebuild hope—from the inside out.
